NEW YORK TEAM TURNS TABLES ON RED SOX IN BOSTON, EVENING UP THE COUNT IN WORLD'S SERIES.

FENWAY PARK, BOSTON, October 10.—The New York National Leaguers today retrieved their defeat of Tuesday by downing the Red Sox in the third contest for the world's base ball title. Expectations of the Gotham fans, aroused by the game fight McGraw's men made in the tie battle here yesterday, were fully justified by their performance today. Marquard's pitching was the feature.

THE GAME DESCRIBED PLAY BY PLAY.

A warm sun and a gentle northerly breeze at noon dispelled the clouds that had threatened rain all the morning. The smart showers during the night had little effect on the infield, and the groundkeeper gave the diamond a good sprinkling before the players came on the field.

An automobile was presented to Tris Speaker for being the most valuable player to his team in the American League.

Devore played right field and Murray left field. The change was made because Murray usually plays a sunfield. The crowd laughed when it was announced that if the ball hit any of the policemen stationed along the rear fence, the ball would be considered still in play. Umpire Evans went behind the bat. Klem made the base decisions. Righter went to right field and O'Loughlin went to left field.

First Inning.

New York—The first pitch was a ball. Devore got a single to center after having three balls and two strikes called on him. Doyle flied out to Speaker. It was an attempt at the hit and run play. Devore was out stealing. Carrigan to Doyle. Devore being blocked six feet off the bag. Snodgrass out on a fly to Speaker. No runs. Boston—Hooper flied out to Fletcher. Marquard had good speed and a fast breaking curve. Yerkles was out on strikes. The crowd cheered Speaker as he came to the plate. Speaker was out, Doyle to Merkle. No runs.

Second Inning.

New York—Murray made a two-base hit to right center. Merkle sacrificed and was out, O'Brien to Stahl. Murray going to third on the play. Murray scored on Herzog's sacrifice fly to Hooper, whose throw to the plate failed to catch the fleet New York fielder. Meyers was out, Gardner to Stahl. One run. Boston—Lewis shot a hot single to center. Marquard tried to catch Lewis off first and the crowd cried "Balk!" but it was not allowed by the umpire. Gardner sacrificed, Herzog to Merkle. Lewis taking second. Stahl went out on a long fly to Murray. Wagner struck out on three pitched balls. No runs.

Third Inning.

New York—Fletcher took his base on balls. O'Brien was unsteady and could not control his moist ball. Marquard sacrificed, O'Brien to Stahl. Fletcher on second. Devore, after getting three balls, struck out. Doyle flied to first. No runs.

Boston—Carrigan sent up a high foul, which Meyers smothered. O'Brien struck out. Hooper also fanned. No runs.

Fourth Inning.

New York—Snodgrass was out, second to first. Murray went out on a bunt, pitcher to first. Merkle also was retired, pitcher to first. O'Brien fielding Merkle's puzzling grounder cleverly. The crowd kept cheering. Righter went to right field and O'Loughlin went to left field. Speaker singled sharply to left. He ran with a limp to first base. Umpire Evans went behind the bat. Klem made the base decisions. Righter went to right field and O'Loughlin went to left field.

Fifth Inning.

New York—Herzog doubled to left. Meyers went out, pitcher to first, Herzog going to third. Fletcher singled to right, scoring Herzog. Fletcher stole second. Carrigan's throw being a little low. Marquard walked, as O'Brien became unsteady over the New York hitting. Bedient began to warm up for Boston. Devore forced Marquard at second, short to pitcher and Gardner was thrown out. Devore stole second, Fletcher being held at third. Hooper was purposely passed to first base and the bases were filled with two out. Snodgrass, with three and two on him, flied out to left. One run. Boston—Stahl singled to right. It was a hard drive and well played by Devore, who held the batter on first base. Stahl was out attempting to steal on a short passed ball. Marquard flied out to left. Murray made a dazzling one-hand catch of Wagner's fly after first misjudging it. Carrigan went out pitcher to first. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

The Boston fans applauded Murray for his catch, as he went to the plate. Murray fouled out to left. Lewis making the catch after a hard run. Merkle struck out after having three balls called on him. Herzog was retired, short to first. No runs. Boston—O'Brien fanned out on three pitched balls. Hooper flied to second. Speaker was given a tremendous ovation as he came to the plate, the crowd clamoring for a hit. Speaker fouled out to catcher. No runs.

Seventh Inning.

New York—Meyers struck out after getting three balls and fouling off half a dozen. Pitcher was out, third to first. Marquard went out, first to pitcher, who covered first. No runs.

Boston—Everybody got up in the "lucky seventh" for Boston and cheered for several minutes. Lewis was out, short to first. Gardner fouled out to left. Stahl doubled to left field bleachers. Had the ball gone ten feet higher, it would have cleared the high fence for a home run. Wagner flied out to right. No runs.

Eighth Inning.

New York—Devore singled to left. Doyle flied out to short. Snodgrass singled to left, Devore being held to second. Murray flied out to left, neither base runner advancing. Merkle forced Snodgrass at second, short to second. No runs. Boston—Engle went to bat for Carrigan. It was announced also that Ball would bat for O'Brien. Engle flied out to left. Ball struck out. Hooper walked. It was the first base on balls given by Marquard during the game. Short hit to pitcher and Gardner was thrown out at third, pitcher to third. No runs.

Ninth Inning.

New York—Bedient pitching and Cady catching for Boston. Herzog was hit by a pitched ball, taking first. Herzog stole second. Fletcher flied out to center and Meyers was doubled at first. No runs. Boston—Speaker flied out to short. Lewis beat out an infield hit past first. Gardner doubled to right, scoring Lewis. Short hit to pitcher and Gardner was thrown out at third, pitcher to third. Hendrickson running for Stahl. Hendrickson was safe at first on a muffed short's throw. Hendrickson going to third. Cady flied out to right. No runs.

A St. Louis critic tells of an odd play, one by which a catcher and pitcher both got an assist on a strike out. It was a hard drive and well played by Devore, who held the batter on first base. Stahl was out attempting to steal on a short passed ball. Marquard flied out to left. Murray made a dazzling one-hand catch of Wagner's fly after first misjudging it. Carrigan went out pitcher to first. No runs.

BIG CROWD AT LAUREL.

Fatty Grub, Heavily Played at 5 to 1, Wins First Race.

Special Dispatch to The Star. RACE TRACK, LAUREL, Md., October 10.—An ideal day and an attractive card brought out one of the largest crowds of the season, from Baltimore and Washington. The Washington contingent was an unusually large one. The first race, five furlongs, for two-year-olds, was won by Fatty Grub, a heavily played 5 to 1 shot. Fatty Grub jumped into an early lead and held it all the way around, but was rapidly tiring at the finish. Gerrard, a 15 to 1 shot, managed to nose out the heavily played Stockton, for second place. Stockton ran a good race, but tired in the stretch. Trifler, the heavily played favorite, with Glass up, was out of the money. Schuttenberger rode a very good race. Veneta Strome, touted as "a good thing," just managed to nose out Kate K. the favorite in the third race. Astroloken, owned by Dr. J. S. Tyron, a Washington turfman, with McGartney up, was heavily played, but never had a chance to get in the running; the horse being repeatedly shut out. The feature race of the day, the fourth, a mile and one-sixteenth, was easily won by Carlton G. When the barrier went up the field broke in a bunch, but the horses had gone but about two furlongs when Jockey Hoffmann gave Carlton G.

his head and he promptly took the lead and won going away. Guy Fisher, a heavily played favorite, finished second, but never had a chance to overtake the winner. Summary: Fatty Grub (Butwell), 5 to 1, first; Gerrard (Martin), 15 to 1, second; Stockton (Schuttenberger), 5 to 1, third. Second race—Exton (Schuttenberger), 12 to 1, won; Mahubah (McTaggart), 15 to 1, second; Ambrose (Butwell), 10 to 1, third. Third race—Veneta Strome (Ambrose), 4 to 1, first; Kate K. (Davies), 2 to 1, second; Detect (Butwell), 10 to 1, third. Fourth race—Carlton G. (Hoffmann), 7 to 1, first; Guy Fisher (Glass), 8 to 5, second; Sebago (Schuttenberger), 5 to 2.

THE THIRD CONTEST AS SEEN BY GRILLO

BY J. ED GRILLO.

FENWAY PARK BALL GROUND, Boston, Mass., October 10.—Just before the game the Chalmers trophy automobile was presented to Speaker of the Red Sox. McGraw watched both Tesreau and Marquard warm up and then selected the latter for the day's work. He also made a shift in his outfield, sending Devore to right and Murray to left. Fletcher, who had a very bad day yesterday, remained at short. O'Brien pitched for Boston.

Though the Giants failed to score in the opening inning, they took a particular liking to O'Brien's delivery. Devore opened with a single to center, Doyle followed with a line drive, which Speaker pulled down. Devore died on an attempt to steal second and Snodgrass wound up the inning with another line drive to Speaker.

Rube Marquard seemed to be in splendid form. He showed a lot of stuff in the opening inning, retiring the side in order and striking out Yerkles. It was again up to Murray to distinguish himself for the Giants in the second. He opened the round with a two-base hit and paved the way for the first run, Merkle sacrificing him to third, and, though Herzog's fly was to short right field, Hooper's throw to the plate was wide of the mark and Murray scored.

Marquard was forced to extend himself in the second, which Lewis opened with a single to left; Gardner sacrificed him to second; Stahl was out on a little fly to center; then the Rube struck out Wagner. The Giants played a waiting game on O'Brien. Nearly every batter that faced him in the opening innings had him in a hole, and his wisdom in the third came near proving disastrous. He walked Fletcher, and Marquard sacrificed him. Devore carried him until the score was 3 and 2, but finally struck out. Then came a break for O'Brien. Doyle hit the first ball right into Stahl's hand. Had it been a root either way it would have been good for a hit.

Speaker's Ankle Bad.

Tris Speaker played with a bad ankle, hampering him in running to first. The disappointment of the series to date is Larry Gardner, who, in fifteen trips to the plate, has failed to make anything like a base hit. The injury that kept him out of the game the last two weeks of the season seems to have brought about a batting slump which, unless it is broken, is sure to cause a serious handicap to the Red Sox.

O'Brien's end seemed to have come in the fifth, but he was lucky enough to get out of the inning with but one run. Herzog started the inning with a double to left. Meyers' out at first put him on third, from where he scored on Fletcher's single to right. Fletcher stole second, the first piffle of the day. Then O'Brien walked Marquard, but Wagner made a great play on Devore's grounder, forcing Marquard at second. Devore stole. Doyle looked too dangerous or a servant—a want ad in The Star will reach the person who will fill your need.

two on Snodgrass, with the bases filled, when the latter hit a line drive to Lewis, retiring the side.

Murray's Fine Catch.

Besides hitting like a fender in the series, Red Murray's fielding has been one of the features. In the last half of the fifth Wagner hit a long fly to left field, which had all the earmarks of a two-base hit into the crowd. Murray, however, leaped high into the air and pulled the sphere down. The fans cheered themselves hoarse at the remarkable performance by the "lemon" of the world series of 1911.

After getting out of that hole in the fifth O'Brien seemed to improve in his pitching in the sixth and seventh, when he retired the side in order.

During the side-up of the two teams previous to the opening of the series, Jake Stahl was not figured as being any special value to his team, yet he has not only been a consistent hitter, but has played his position exceptionally well.

Incidentally he got credited for the longest hit since the teams clashed. In the seventh inning, after two men had been retired, he hit one of Marquard's fast balls to the top of the sign board, far over the crowd sitting in the temporary seats.

Bedient Relieves O'Brien.

In a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire Stahl used two pinch hitters in the eighth, sending Engle to bat for Carrigan and Ball for O'Brien. Engle flied to left, and then Ball struck out. Marquard lost control pitching to Hooper and gave his first base on balls. Yerkles sent an ugly bounder to Herzog, which he picked up yards behind third, then making a perfect throw and retiring the side. Bedient and Cady filled the places of O'Brien and Carrigan.

MR. LYNCH PULLS A BONE.

NEW YORK, October 10.—Several hundred New York fans who returned from Boston yesterday, under the mistaken impression that the tie game would be played off in this city, found some consolation upon learning that even Thomas J. Lynch, president of the National League, forgot the rule which compelled the staging of today's game in Boston. Mr. Lynch rode along with them until the train reached Providence, when he received a telegram from base ball officials in Boston informing him of his mistake. He accordingly got off at Providence and doubled back to Boston, but his fellow-passengers remained in ignorance of the rule until they reached New York.
